THE STORM.

This section was visited on Friday afternoon and night with one of the greatest storms of wind and rain known since 1854.

The river opposite the town, from seven to nine o'clock on Friday evening, was lashed by the wind into a fury of waves, which dashed against the shore, pitching the surf over the sea wall on the Bay.

Some damage was done to fences and shade trees in town, but nothing serious.

On the Port Royal railroad, above Yemassee, the rain was the heaviest known for many years. In many places it appears to have come down in water-spouts. The banks and cuts seem to be literally flattened down by an immense weight of water. The water in some cuts stood three feet deep. On the pine lands near Allendale and Early Branch the water was six and eight inches deep in places where it would seem impossible for water to stand.

Six or eight water-ways were washed out on the road between Yemassee and Brunswick. A freight train met with an accident on Friday near Altamans, from the giving way of a small trestle. The engine went over safely but a car loaded with salt broke through and another freight car followed it. No person was injured.

At Duck Creek trestle and at Penn Branch, the banks were washed out by the freshets.

Some banks were destroyed that have stood all strains since 1861.

The mill dams were washed away, damaging the road in several places.

Gangs of men were early at work from both ends of the road, and it will be in running order again ere these lines reach our readers.

At Bull river the blow was very severe. The little steamer Bull River was sunk while lying at the wharf. She was raised on Saturday without difficulty. Several flats belonging to the phosphate companies were sent adrift, some fences and trees destroyed but no serious damage resulted.

The weather has since the blow been fine and cool.

On St. Helena the gale was equally felt. Several shanties were blown to bits while the cotton was somewhat injured. The house of Mr. Burton was blown from the underpinning and turned almost upside down. The family were inside but were not seriously injured. They crawled out of the windows and took refuge for the night in a shed.

The freshet in the Saltchekatchie river is the greatest since 1841. The water on Monday was up to the sleepers on the railroad bridge. The stream poured through Buckfield Culvert and forced its way into the Pocotaligo river. The swamps are so full that the deer have been forced out of them and the hunters are enjoying fine sport among them. Mr. Wm. Cuthbert saw nine of them on Monday within a short distance of Yemassee.

The Gale Elsewhere.

The gale on the Georgia coast was very severe. At Thomasville over $10,000 worth of property was destroyed and one woman was killed by a falling house. At Quitman two churches were blown down and several shops and dwellings demolished. The cotton crop over a large section was badly injured by the wind and rain.

The railroads suffered badly in every direction. On the South Carolina railroad near Reeves turnout the Augusta night express train ran into a broken culvert. The engine and five box cars went into the creek. The engineer, W. H. Breckman; W. Doar, fireman; Smalls, fireman; and Geo. McManus, train hand were instantly killed.

The oldest inhabitants in the neighborhood agree that the fall of rain and consequent rise in the waters is entirely unprecedented. The embankment where the accident occurred is fully ten feet high, and the water not only washed all the earth away, but flowed over the top of the track. The flood extended all along the line of the road. At a point three miles above Branchville, on the Columbia branch, the road, in a level plain, was covered with water to the depth of several feet, and the track was washed up, causing a detention of the down Columbia train on Friday night. Reports from points along the line of the road state that five mill dams between this city and Columbia were broken by the flood, and that a large amount of property was destroyed by the water.

On the northeastern road the flood is represented as being equally unprecedented. Near Saffar's depot, about fifty-eight miles from the city, a culvert was washed away, but the damage was discovered in time to convey warning to the down train due at five o'clock on Saturday morning. All along the road the evidences of the flood were visible. At one point the track for a mile was covered with water.

On the Central Railroad, in Georgia, an accident similar to the one on the South Carolina Railroad is reported by telegraph. On Friday, a culvert about eight miles from Milledgeville was washed away and the engine of a freight train, with six freight cars, were precipitated into the chasm. The engineer, William Storey, a fireman named Tim Scott, and a train hand were instantly killed, and buried beneath the ruins.

In Charleston the gale was accompanied by a heavy rain-fall, which during the storm amounted to 2.66 inches. Some injury was done to the smaller crafts in the harbor, but the vessels in port rode out the gale in safety, and were extremely fortunate in their almost entire escape from damage. The steamship Virginia reached here on Saturday afternoon from Baltimore. She encountered the gale about seven o'clock on the previous evening, while off Cape Roman, but escaped without suffering any damage. On the Island the people were "greatly alarmed and much annoyed by the rain beating in the houses, but no damage was done.

TO THE WEST! TO THE WEST!

Before making arrangements to follow the advice of the "thousands who have already gone," it would be well to consider what has been done to make the journey to your "Homes in the west" as pleasant and as free from danger as human skill and foresight can accomplish.

By consolidation and construction a road has been put in operation on the shortest possible line from Nashville, Tenn., to St. Louis, "the future great City of the world." This line, the has during the past year, earned an enviable reputation by its smooth track, prompt time, safe connections, and the magnificence of its passenger equipment. Its trains are made up of new and commodious day cars, provided with the celebrated Miller complex and platform, and the Westinghouse air-brake.

It is practically the only remaining Pullman Palace Drawing
